XXIII International Conference on Photonic, Electronic and Atomic Collisions

July 23-29, 2003

Stockholm University – Aula Magna
Stockholm, Sweden

---

The International Conference on Photonic, Electronic and Atomic Collisions (ICPEAC) has been organized every second year since the 1958 New York meeting. This conference series has clearly become leading in the field of atomic interactions in the broad sense and usually attracts between 600 and 900 participants from around the world. We are happy to announce that Stockholm and Stockholm University have been selected to host ICPEAC XXIII July 23-29, 2003. New research on interactions between ions, atoms molecules, clusters and photons will be presented together with the latest news on surface interactions and modifications, femtosecond laser control of atomic and molecular interactions and exotic particles. Intriguing recent results on the production of anti-hydrogen will also be discussed at the Stockholm meeting. ICPEAC delegates are in general highly active researchers with clear interests for the latest developments in experimental- and computer technologies.
